Once upon the time there was an old farmer who had worked his crops for many years. One day his horse ran away. Upon hearing the news, his neighbours came to visit. "Such bad luck," they said sympathetically.

"Maybe," the farmer replied.

The next morning the horse returned, bringing with it three other wild horses. "How wonderful," the neighbours exclaimed.

"Maybe," replied the old man.

The following day, his son tried to ride one of the untamed horses, was thrown, and broke his leg. The neighbours again came to offer their sympathy on his misfortune.

"Maybe," answered the farmer.

The day after, military officials came to the village to draft young men into the army. Seeing that the son's leg was broken, they passed him by. The neighbours congratulated the farmer on how well things had turned out.

"Maybe," said the farmer.

Questions-

3. Make a précis of the following passage and give a title to it. 10

How to control the mind seems to have always been a great problem for most people. In the Bhagavad Gita, an ancient scripture of Hinduism, Prince Arjuna laments to his friend and teacher Shri Krishna, "O Krishna, my mind is naturally very restless. It constantly agitates my senses. It is extremely stubborn and resists all attempts to control it. It is just as difficult to control as it is to control the strong winds." Hindu tradition also compares an uncontrolled mind to a monkey which is totally drunk and is being stung by hornets. This excellent analogy beautifully describes the pitiable state of an uncontrolled mind. Some techniques of controlling the mind were developed by some ancient sages of India, among whom Patanjali is the most well-known.

4. Read the following passage and answer the questions given below. 10

If you try to know how your food is digested, you will be surprised! How much work is required to just digest the food! We put it into our mouth and chew it. The saliva mixes with it. Then, we swallow it and it goes to the stomach. Here, the digestive juices and enzymes work on it. It moves further into the large intestine for assimilation and the process goes on. So much is happening!! All we know is to put the food in the mouth. After that we don't know what happens. There is a significance of what we know, but the significance of what we don't know is much more. It is just not possible to know everything about this entire creation.

Questions-

- (6) What is a matter of surprise?
- (7) What mixes with saliva?
- (8) What happens to the food in the stomach?
- (9) What is more significant, the known or the unknown?
- (10) What is not possible?
